Dear all,

It's a great pleasure to welcome you to the 2017 South and Southeast Asian Youth Seminar on Climate Change!

Enclosed please find:

- one letter of acceptance
- agenda of the program
- personal informational form (Taiwanese participants only; please fill it out and send it back to be before Jun. 28)
- assigned country list in the simulation conference
- course reading
- course instructions

The letter of acceptance contains important information, including arrival, accommodation, departure, and dress code. Please read all the information very carefully. For Taiwanese participants, you are kindly asked to send the personal information form back to me by no later than Jun. 28.

The program is structured as a simulation conference, so every participant is assigned to represent one country. You can see your assigned country in the attachment (assigned countries in the simulation conference). The central issue we are going to talk about this year is "How to Strengthen and Complement the Loss & Damage Mechanism Provided under the Paris Agreement." Attached you will find one course reading for your reference as well as course instructions that will brief you the issue at hand and also your mission & specific tasks to be completed. Your first mission is to produce a short plenary statement on behalf of your assigned country and please send your plenary statement to me before Jul. 2.

Lastly, for everyone to know more about climate policies at country level, during the lunch break on Jul. 4, you are free to volunteer to present your countries' climate policies (five minutes maximum). If you have PowerPoint files, please send it to me in advance.

Please kindly acknowledge receipt of this email. And please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any further questions. Thank you.

Looking forward to seeing you in Taiwan!
